Second Day Of Big Poultry Show

This, the second day of the Anderson County Poultry Association show, has been a busy and successful one, with a fair attendance, weather considered.

Colonel C. P. Van Winkle of Dallas and Mr. S. J. Hopper of the Southern Poultry Journal, arrived last night, and early this morning the judging of the birds began. The work was well under way when the doors were opened to the public at 9 a. m.

The weather has been anything but propitious for the show, yet, in a financial way, it was a very good day.

All day long today, as the patrons viewed the fine birds, exclamations of wonder and surprise could be heard. Many people had no sort of idea as to what the chicken fanciers were doing. Some of them declared they had never before seen real chickens. Others expressed determination to get in the game; to start chicken pens of their own. And giving this inspiration is really the great value, and the chief aim, of the show. You see, chicken raisers are not selfish. They want their neighbors to raise fine chickens, too. They are enthusiasts and patriotic enthusiasts, at that. They want to see an increase in the chicken industry.
